REPORT ON TRAINING PROGRAM FOR STUDENTS

For the establishment of clinical skill laboratories and simulation-based training, each department of KMCT College of Allied Health Sciences follows well-structured training and orientation programs during the last five years, based on the teaching learning pedagogy as stated in the program outcomes of the regulatory body- KUHS.

During the starting of the academic year in each department, the subject expert will give a brief orientation session according to the pattern of each year. In a relevant discipline we will explain about the clinical skill and simulations through their practical classes. The same skills are further enhanced through their internships, out postings, and clinical postings.

Through these programmes students have experienced a noticeable boost in their academic performances. The implementation of specialized training sessions has effectively elevated the skill set of students, empowering them to excel in their chosen fields. By incorporating practical training modules, students have gained hands-on experience, translating theoretical knowledge into valuable, applicable clinical skills.
