ACTIVITY REPORT ON TEACHING-LEARNING ACTIVITIES AND STUDENT ENGAGEMENT IN RURAL AND URBAN HEALTH CENTERS

Students from the Allied Health Sciences have actively engaged in the teaching learning activities provided at the community health centres. This engagement can contribute to the well-being of the community by providing valuable healthcare services and education. This can significantly enhance practical skills and competence of our students. They provided support to healthcare professionals in various departments, including nursing, pharmacy, radiology, and medical records. Students assisted in patient care administration, health screenings, and health education sessions. They actively engaged with patients, addressing their concerns and providing necessary guidance. Students actively participated in health awareness campaigns organized by the community health centres.

1. Medical lab observations

- Laboratory students from Allied Health Science were assigned to medical labs for observation of new investigative techniques. They closely observed and learned various laboratory procedures, including sample collection, handling, and testing. Students gained practical knowledge about advanced diagnostic techniques and equipment. They actively interacted with lab technicians and professionals, clarifying doubts and seeking guidance. Students also assisted in basic lab tasks, ensuring smooth workflow and maintaining lab cleanliness

2. Fitness and Physiotherapy Evaluation Campaigns:

- Physiotherapy students conducted fitness and physiotherapy evaluation campaigns in collaboration with these health centres. They organized fitness assessment sessions, including body composition analysis, cardiovascular fitness tests, and flexibility assessments. Students provided personalized exercise programs and rehabilitation plans to individuals based on their evaluation results. They conducted group exercise sessions and educated participants on injury prevention and proper exercise techniques. Physiotherapy students actively promoted the importance of physical fitness and its impact on overall well-being.

3. Eye Screening Campaigns:

- Optometry students organized eye screening campaigns, targeting schools, community centres, and public spaces. They conducted comprehensive eye screenings, including visual acuity tests, refraction assessments, and ocular health examinations. Students identified individuals with vision problems and referred them for further evaluation or provided appropriate eyewear prescriptions. They conducted awareness sessions on common eye conditions, proper eye care, and the importance of regular eye check-ups. Optometry students actively collaborated with local opticians and eye care professionals to ensure the success of the campaigns.

4. Other community postings:

Interns from our institute's department participate in a rotational training program at the Kerala Federation of the Blind (KFB), Grace Palliative Care and CRC. Each batch of interns spends one week at a time, at KFB, Grace and CRC, with 3-4 interns in each batch. Engaging in teaching and learning activities at community health centers provides students with hands-on experience, allowing them to apply theoretical knowledge to real-world situations.
