ORIENTATION ON YOUNG INNOVATORS PROGRAMME(Y.I.P)

The Young Innovators Programme 5.0 was an initiative aimed at fostering innovation and entrepreneurship among young individuals. The program sought to provide a platform for young innovators to develop their ideas, gain valuable skills, and connect with mentors and industry experts. This report provides an overview and assessment of the Young Innovators Programme 5.0, highlighting its objectives, activities, outcomes, and recommendations for future iterations.

The primary objective of the Young Innovators Programme 5.0 was to nurture and empower young individuals to become successful innovators and entrepreneurs. The program aimed to support their innovative ideas and projects, equip them with essential entrepreneurial skills, and facilitate networking opportunities with potential investors and collaborators. By achieving these goals, the program aimed to foster a culture of innovation and contribute to the growth of the startup ecosystem.

Activities:

1. Call for Applications: The program initiated a call for applications, inviting young individuals with innovative ideas to participate. The application process included submission of project proposals, outlining the concept, feasibility, and potential impact.

2. Selection Process: A rigorous selection process was conducted to shortlist the most promising applicants. The selection committee evaluated the proposals based on factors such as uniqueness, feasibility, scalability, and social impact.
